The Mugwumps

(Advertiser (Mass.) Mirror)

There are a few—and we rejoice that there are so very few—Republicans, by nature cautious, conservative, timid, even wanting in courage, who argue that the way to success in the next National contest is to win back to the Republican party George William Curtis and his band of Mugwumps. It would be neither politic, nor in accordance with any rule of moral ethics ever propounded, to pursue such a course. Not politic, because loss, and no gain would beset the Republican party from such conduct. This has been already demonstrated. In 1884, with the entire Mugwump crowd in New York supporting Grover Cleveland against James G. Blaine, Mr. Blaine was defeated by less than eleven hundred votes in a total poll of over eleven hundred thousand in that great State. In 1885, Ira Davenport, Republican candidate for Governor, with the support of every Mugwump in New York, and whose election was urged by Senator Edmunds on the stump, was defeated by David B. Hill by over eleven thousand plurality.

Those who argue that something is to be gained by conciliating the Mugwumps, forget that their conciliation means the alienation of thousands of earnest, loyal Republicans, who do not believe that those who sought to destroy the Republican party, while pretending to be its friends should be again intrusted with its confidence, they do not believe that the traitor and the assassin should have a reward above the loyalist and the patriot. Let it be remembered that George William Curtis sought an election as delegate from the Empire State to the National Republican Convention at Chicago in 1884, that he went into that convention trusted with power placed in his hands by the Republican party of New York, instructed to carry out the principles and wishes of that party, that he participated in all the actions of that convention, that he voted upon every ballot, that he voted to make the nomination of James G. Blaine unanimous that after the nomination for President, he helped to select the candidate for Vice President. He never pretended that the nominees were not the choice of the delegates, he never pretended that the delegates had not obeyed the will of their constituents, he never charged that the nominations were not fairly made. And yet he walked out of the convention of which he had been a conspicuous part, in which he sought to have selected the candidates which he preferred and deliberately went over and supported the party opposed to every principle and measure he had pretended to hold dear.

If that's common honesty then we have no conception of what honor and integrity mean. We say, deliberately, knowing well the meaning of our words, that such conduct in any business transaction of life would be regarded as the grossest betrayal as clearest evidence of disloyal, as absolutely dishonest. To have such men to walk back into the Republican party, is to ask every honest and loyal man to walk out of it. No party would deserve to live nor could live that would pursue such a course. A party is but a common partnership, an organization where those who think alike may act together; its conventions must be conducted by delegates. A convention governed by the theory of Mr. Curtis—"heads two tails you lose"—may do for Mugwumps, but it will never do for honest and upright men.

The Republican party has many members who can lead it to victory in the next campaign, but we believe with the vast majority of Republicans throughout this land that the surest way to success, the most honorable course to pursue, is to again select as its standard bearer the man from Maine who stands as the acknowledged leader of his party not only throughout the United States but throughout the world. We know whereof we assert when we say that Mr. Blaine does not and will not seek the nomination. No man living has the right to say that Mr. Blaine has by letter or word intimated that he desires the nomination. We are not speaking in the interest of Mr. Blaine, we are speaking in the interest of the Republican party. Mr. Blaine is too good a Republican, too good an American citizen, to decline to accept the nomination if his party again asks him to become its leader. It is for the best interest of the party, that the party should seek Mr. Blaine and urge him to accept the nomination.

Mr. Blaine is a private citizen, he is now travelling abroad as a private citizen, with his family, seeking to avoid public notice, refusing to permit any newspaper correspondent to accompany him, in order that his movements might be kept from public gaze. And yet he is followed and dogged by agents of the Mugwump press, that every act performed and every word uttered may be misrepresented and used to personally malign him. He has received the homage of people of other lands such as no other American citizen ever gave. General Grant received

The Republicans of this country who are true to the principles of their party, true to their own unbending, are looking forward with eagerness to the next National contest, believing that the party will, with great unanimity, again select as its standard bearer that champion of champions of Republican principles, James G. Blaine, and that under his leadership victory is assured.

"Accident cannot abate the love of a great party, nor the admiration of a great people for a statesman true alike to his convictions and to his country."

MR. BLAINE IN GERMANY.
An Intimate Acquaintance with the Prince of Wales

New York Aug 31 A London despatch to the Tribune says—Mr. Blaine's visit to Homburg has resulted in an acquaintance with the Prince of Wales more intimate than would have been likely to occur in London. Letters from American and English friends agree in saying that the relations between them are intimate enough to attract attention. Since Mr.
Blaine was present at the Prince's reception three times in public the Park the last time was on the evening of his arrival with them and they had a few minutes talk while the Anglo-American party which is still numerous, but less. The Prince has in fact not been extremely cordial to Mr. Blaine, but his friend's interest in the American is evident in his way of making it sure that Mr. Blaine has seen and known of all the reports of the conversation on Homburg but in fact Mr. Blaine are presumably not in his who know what was said.

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in various ways—tumors, ulcers, sores, eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla exists at trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two funerals on my neck. Took two bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am now well again."—Johns, New Haven.

"G. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofula for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him."

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is easily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. William Spyre Ryall, O., suffered greatly from rheumatism, and said his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and says: "I am entirely well."

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is entirely cured." J. B. BRANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.
